Project Profile:

Integral

Services
Limited

The Customer

Based in Alberta, Integral Energy Services Ltd. provides its clients with a range of energy services. Its offerings include electrical services from temporary power to startup; heat-tracing solutions; data and fibre optics services; as well as civil and mechanical project management.

The Challenge

Integral Energy Ltd. hired Decca Design Inc. to conceptualize and furnish its new 2,500-sq.ft. facility. All of the company's offices would be located on one floor, and the space would require the installation of a reception area, boardroom, private offices, open-area cubicles for employees—as well as an estimating area where planning and sourcing of products would occur.

The goal of this project was to showcase a range of products and manufacturers, however a tight timeline, the need to balance aesthetic and functionality, and budget considerations were all challenges that had to be overcome.

Decca Design turned to Grand & Toy to help them take on these challenges in order to meet their client's vision and goals.

The Solution

Working in close partnership with Decca Design, Grand & Toy helped the design firm provide innovative, creative design and furniture solutions for Integral Energy's new office space.

For the reception—a custom desk complemented the lounge seating and guest table.

Private offices were a pleasing blend of function, and aesthetics.

The open-area cubicles, metal storage and shelving, laminated wall exteriors, and window solar shades were elements that worked together to create a comfortable work environment.

In the estimating area, the heart of the business, the need for organization and efficiency was maximized with storage units, white boards, and a paper rail track—among other space-saving solutions.

In the end, the Grand & Toy team's knowledge of office furniture solutions supported Decca Design's creativity and vision, resulting in a collaborative project that exceeded the client's expectations.
